Foreword

After a lapse of three years this revised and corrected List of Graduates from all departments of Georgetown University has again been prepared and is herewith presented to the Alumni.

The purpose of the publication is two-fold: 1st, to strengthen the union already auspiciously existing between the Alumni and their Alma Mater; and, 2d, to strengthen union and fraternity among the Alumni themselves by thus furnishing a reliable means of intercommunication, with a view to mutual aid and recommendation. A lawyer in Massachusetts, or a doctor in New York may have professional dealings with parties in distant regions—be it California, New Mexico, or Michigan—which he is unable to attend to in person; by consulting his Triennial Catalogue he is sure to find some reliable brother alumnus to whom he can with confidence entrust his case. And the same may be said of commercial, mercantile and other business interests.

The Triennial List thus enables the officers of the University, as well as the graduate body, to maintain a live interest in the whereabouts, the work, and the progress of each individual who has passed through the institution. From information thus gathered, records are kept which are a distinct advantage when, as not infrequently happens, the Faculty is requested to recommend a suitable man for a given position.

It must be remembered, however, that in a body of over five thousand individuals, absolute accuracy is well nigh impossible. A most extensive correspondence must be instituted and maintained; in many cases, a second, a third, and a fourth letter became necessary, because the graduate in question, either through negligence or press of business, failed to reply; while in other cases every trace of the person sought for had vanished and laborious correspondence with friends and classmates has ended, not infrequently, with the one disappointing word "missing."

Even as these pages go to press, new information, changes of address, new occupations, etc., are at hand.

In order, therefore, to attain the original purpose of this Directory and to maintain it at the highest possible efficiency, the continued co-operation of every loyal alumnus is earnestly requested. Notify the Director of the Graduate List regarding any change, be it in personal occupation or in residence; forward information regarding classmates and fellow alumni—their successes, honors or new distinctions that may come to them—for Alma Mater will rejoice with her sons rejoicing; and finally, endeavor, as far as possible, to locate those missing graduates whose names were included in a list recently mailed from the University.

The Secretary takes this opportunity of extending his gratitude to the secretaries of the various Alumni Associations, and to all the other Alumni who, in devotion to Alma Mater, rendered him the most cordial and thorough assistance in preparing the Graduate List, and he again urges on every alumnus the necessity of forwarding to him information regarding any graduates whose names or addresses have been omitted from this list.

JOHN B. CREEDEN, S.J., Secretary,
Georgetown University,
Washington, D. C.

The Presidents of Georgetown University

The list of the Presidents of Georgetown University is worthily headed by the illustrious Founder of the University:
